The academic program of The Charter School of Wilmington is designed to provide its students with challenging yet manageable course responsibilities. This includes successfully completing prerequisite courses and not exceeding an appropriate number of Advanced Placement (AP) courses as described in our “Course Offerings” booklet. The Charter School of Wilmington’s recommendation for Advanced Placement courses is for students not to exceed three APs in a school year. We recognize that for some students, natural progression of curriculum may lead to exceeding this number. In this instance, our recommendation is for students to increase their number of AP courses by no more than 1 additional course from the previous year.

Your child has selected AP courses that exceed our above recommendation. With your signature below you indicate your understanding of exceeding the school’s recommendation and realize that this decision may necessitate additional academic support from outside of the school.
